

GOLDEN GATE CAMP

July 13, 14 & 15 2007

AYSO's Instructional Retreat for Referees and Coaches And the training of Instructors - all disciplines

Section 2 announces Golden Gate Camp for 2007. The venue is in the hills just east of Oakland at St. Mary's College, Moraga, California.

This is an annual retreat for the advanced training of Coaches, Referees and Instructors. There are two levels of Instructor training for Referee, Coach and Management. Courses are open to all AYSO members anywhere in the country. Saint Mary's College in Moraga provides an excellent setting without distractions. This year classes will be held in air conditioned classrooms. Class size is limited, so enroll early to guarantee a spot!

The courses are as short as half day, to as long as 2 full days. Course fees include overnight accommodations (in the college dorms) and all meals which take place in the college dining facility. Transportation from and to the Oakland Airport is available from local commercial transport.

Course Offerings –

Coach: Intermediate and Advanced Coach
Instructor & Advanced Instructor

Referee: Intermediate, Advanced and National Referee
Instructor and Advanced Instructor
Referee Instructor Evaluator
Assessor

Management: Management Instructor

(First level Instructor courses include Introduction to Instruction on Friday night.)

Travel and Accommodations

The course fee includes meals and overnight accommodations (a bed in a dorm room). There is no particular assignment of students to dorm rooms, other than men are separate from women. However, if a couple wishes to room together, each should make a note of the other on their application.
